TEMPTATION TO EAT FRIEND'S BODY

When Extreme Hunger
- Besieged Him

IS RELATED BY AN EXPLORER

Sir Douglas Mawson Alone
Survives the Unfortunate
Antarctic Expedition.

EXPLORER LOST ALL HIS HAIR

New York, Jan. 15.—"After Dr. Mertz died I debated with myself for two days whether to eat him or bury him. I finally buried him."

"When I took off my boots the soles of my feet came off with them. There was nothing to do but bandage the pieces back on and proceed in agony toward my base."

"For 29 days I lived on the meat of a single dog, and during eight of these days another man had been living on that same dog. For 31 days I was alone on the ice. I had no soles on my feet and my hair all fell out. But finally I got back to my base."

These are the high spots of a narrative told by Sir Douglas Mawson, who arrived on the Cunarder Orundana, and purposes to lecture before the American Geographical Society on his explorations in the Antarctic.

Sir Douglas and two companions, Lieutenant B. S. Ninnies, of the British navy, and Dr. X. Mertz, Swiss ski champion, set out from their base in Amelieand in 1912 to make observations of the geographical and archaeological features of the South Polar continent. Lieutenant Ninnies fell to his death through a crevasse and Dr. Mertz succumbed to a perforation of the intestines. Sir Douglas says he does not know how he himself came through alive, but he admits that he gives thanks every day that he buried Dr. Mertz instead of eating him.

"He died January 8, 1913," said Sir Douglas in describing this part of his adventures. "I was awfully short of food and about 100 miles away from our base and I debated for days on the matter of eating Mertz. But I finally decided that if I ever did get back to civilization it would leave a bad state in my mouth forever. So I buried him in a hole in the ice and pushed on."

On the trip out, Sir Douglas said, the party discovered that by wireless they could notify the Australian coast at least 48 hours before the arrival there of a hurricane. Other important discoveries were made and the out trip was one succession of triumphs with no untoward incidents. But when the little party turned to retrace its steps misfortunes came thick and fast.

"The last day of my trip I had cooked myself a fine meal of dog meat," said Dr. Mawson. "When I got back to real food I was ravenous and the best thing we had was penquin eggs. In the time we waited for the Aurora to return the seven of us ate 7,000 of these boiled, fried, poached and scrambled. And as we had plenty of butter we made the best way of all to cook the eggs."

Children's Coughs—Children's Colds—Both Are Serious.

When one of your little ones shows symptoms of an approaching cold, give it Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey at once. It acts quickly, and prevents the cold growing worse. Very healing—soothes the lungs, loosens the mucous, strengthens the system. It's guaranteed. Only 25c at your druggist. Buy a bottle to-day. Bucklen's Arnica Salve for sores. (Advertisement)

IMPERIAL COMPANY IS NOT IN TOBACCO MARKET

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 16.—The Imperial Tobacco Company will not enter the market in the Fifth Judicial district this year. This information, which will be of great interest to the tobacco growers of Henderson, Webster and Union counties, was given out by Edwin Hodge, general manager of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Kentucky.

Until the last few days the movement of tobacco in this district has been rather sluggish. Under the impression that when the Imperial Company entered the market prices would be boosted, the farmers have been holding back their crops. The announcement yesterday is the first definite information as to whether it would be in the market that the Imperial has given out.

The Gallaher Tobacco Company opened its second factory in this city Tuesday, and A. B. Jarvis threw open the doors of his factory and received about 2,500 pounds. The tobacco delivered was of inferior quality and the best prices paid were $8, $6 and $5.

GRATITUDE!

Antwerp, Jan. 16.—The gratitude of the people of Antwerp for the relief extended by the United States to the war sufferers of Belgium is expressed in a resolution adopted by the Inter-Communal Council of Antwerp.

The resolution reads: "Our cordial thanks are due to the American Commission for relief in Belgium. Our nation was on the brink of starvation. Famine was being added to the horrors of war. In this great city of Antwerp only a short time ago it was impossible to distribute bread, and now soup and other food are being given daily to the poor."

"The help of the people of the United States is, literally, saving us. We are contracting a debt of endless gratitude to them. It is a great consolation that in the midst of the sufferings which our people are enduring, the men and women of the greatest of modern democracies are in such a splendid way standing by one of the smallest nations in the world, which is suffering horribly because it elected to be true to its duty and its honor."

A FINE AND COST FOR GAGGING STRAY DUCK

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 13.—The unusual suit brought by Mrs. George Campbell against Mrs. Lottie Webb, both of South Hickman, and neighbors, for having "gagged" one of Mrs. Campbell's ducks. Thus "willfully injuring personal property" and incapacitating said duck and handicapping him in the partaking of food," was tried yesterday in County Judge E. J. Stahr's Court, and Mrs. Webb was found guilty and fined 1 cent damage and the costs by the judge.

This duck wandered away from home and trespassed on Mrs. Webb's property, and when it returned home had a gag or stick tied in its bill. Mrs. Campbell had a warrant sworn out for Mrs. Webb. The trial was unique and unusual in every detail, being the first suit of this kind ever tried here, and caused much merriment throughout.

Excellent For Stomach Trouble.

"Chamberlain's Tablets are just fine for stomach trouble," writes Mrs. G. C. Dunn, Arnold, Pa. "I was bothered with this complaint for some time and frequently had bilious attacks. Chamberlain's Tablets afforded me great relief from the first, and since taking one bottle of them I feel like a different person." For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement)

Peace At Any Price.

"What's the shape of the earth?" asked the teacher, calling suddenly upon Willie.

"Round."

"How do you know it's round?"

"All right," said Willie; "it's square, then. I don't want to start any argument about it."

Cough Medicine For Children.

Never give a child a cough medicine that contains opium in any form. When opium is given, other and more serious diseases may follow. Long experience has demonstrated that there is no better or safer medicine for coughs, colds and croup in children than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is equally valuable for adults. Try it. It contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement)

Both Ticked.

"Why is that man laughing?"

"Because he bought a horse cheaply."

"And what's the other one chuckling over?"

"He sold the horse."

AWFUL RESULTS OF EARTHQUAKE

That Shook Many Towns
In Italy.

LOSS OF LIFE WAS ENORMOUS

Twenty Towns Were Levelled
To the Ground By Terrific Shock.

TRAIN THROWN FROM TRACK

Rome, Jan. 14.—The toll of dead and injured in the great earthquake that has swept over Central and Southern Italy has not yet been made up, but all advices reaching Rome indicate the ever-growing extent of the disaster.

Towns with thousands of inhabitants have been overthrown and from some of these come details which show an immense loss of life. The estimates ran to-night from 25,000 to 50,000 dead and injured, and yet there are several sections, which undoubtedly felt the earthquake in full measure, from which no estimates can be obtained.

In the ancient territory of Marsi, which includes Avezzano, the victims are placed at 20,000. Only a small minority is left of the inhabitants of Avezzano, who numbered approximately 12,000. Fifteen other towns and villages in that section have been laid waste. King Victor Emmanuel is on the scene at Avezzano, and 30,000 soldiers have been dispatched to the various centers where the force of the disturbance was greatest.

Italy as a nation has arisen again to give succor, as she did at the time of the Messina earthquake six years ago, to those who have fallen in this latest catastrophe from which the country has suffered.

While the greater part of the damage was done by the first earthquake, which occurred Wednesday morning at 7:55 o'clock, there has been at least one severe shock since then, which resulted in the collapse of many of the structures which escaped the first, and it is estimated that more than one hundred shocks, for the most part of a minor nature, occurred during the twenty-four hours after the disaster.

Avezzano is a necropolis and at Sorra, some twenty-five miles to the southeast, the dead will total 1,000.

So far as is known about twenty towns have been absolutely leveled, while an almost equal number suffered serious damage. In all these places persons were killed or injured.

In the ruins throughout the day volunteers worked heroically endeavoring to extricate wounded or rescue the bodies of the dead. King Victor Emmanuel himself directed the work at Avezzano, where the piteous appeals of persons caught beneath wreckage could be plainly heard.

It is estimated that in Avezzano 4,000 people are buried alive, some of them school children in an institution which collapsed. Only four soldiers of the garrison of 400 in the town escaped when the barracks fell.

Sorra, with its population of 20,000, was almost entirely destroyed. All the municipal and government officials perished. Four hundred and fifty bodies already have been taken from the ruins there, and a large number of injured are under treatment.

Trains arriving in Rome from the east are bringing hundreds of injured into Rome, where they are being taken to hospitals and private homes for treatment. Surgeons and nurses are being dispatched from all directions into the stricken districts to minister to the needs of the injured, while troops are being sent to the ruined or damaged towns to guard against vandals.

From many other places come reports of slighter damage to property and minor casualties.

Train Thrown From Track.

London, Jan. 14.—The experiences of a passenger on a train which was thrown from the track by the earthquake are related in a dispatch from Rome to the Central News.

"Our train was near Lake Gucino when the earthquake occurred," he said. "There was one shock of great violence, followed by three others. The train was thrown off the rails and many of the passengers were injured."

"I climbed out of the train and gazed around on the lake and the surrounding mountains. Where there had been towns I could merely see enormous whirlwinds of dust and smoke. Apparently the towns existed no longer."

The dispatch adds that almost all the way to Tivoli buffings along the railway were in ruins. Troops sent from Rome were able to rescue hundreds of persons at many points, but cries for help were heard from beneath ruined buildings in a large number of instances in which it was impossible to effect a speedy release of the victims.

It is estimated that 4,000 persons were buried alive under the wreckage at Avezzano. Throughout the night shouts for help could be heard. In one instance a school building collapsed, burying 100 children, many of whom are still alive.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY
IN THE WORLD'S AFFAIRS

A man sold the formula for making soap for $100,000. The purchaser could make as good soap of his own, but he was paying for the advertisements that had already gone into the soap he bought.

Put two breakfast foods exactly alike upon a counter, one of them bearing a new label and the other one of the widely advertised products. The storekeeper will sell 100 of the advertised brand for every one package of the unknown.

Another, but unknown, revivalist quite as picturesque, forceful, eloquent, vindictive and slangy as Mr. Sunday might come down here for a week and get nobody to come to hear him, while the Rev. "Billy" draws tens of thousands. A beautiful example of the power of advertising.

"I don't care a d—n what you say about me, so you keep saying it all the time," was General Ben Butler's maxim. He knew the value of publicity.

Half the reputed political leaders in Pennsylvania would lose their crowns if the newspapers were unanimously to insist, day after day, that somebody else was the leader. More than one matinee idol has been created by a clever press agent.

A practical joker stops on the City Hall plaza and looks and points toward the sky. In five minutes 500 others are doing the same thing. It is a case of follow the leader, and that's what publicity does—points to a leader for you to follow.—[Philadelphia Ledger.]

Fifty Years After.

Fifty years ago J. B. Billard arrived at Topeka in a prairie schooner and Sunday his son flew over the city in an aeroplane. This item is recorded in a Topeka paper to show what progress is made in fifty years. "The old gentleman, though it must be remembered, has never ridden in an aeroplane. He is still partial to the schooner," suggests the Fort Scott Tribune.—[Kansas City Star.]

WOODROW WILSON --HIS PROSPECTS

In the Next Presidential Race.

WHO IS NOW OPPOSING HIM?

Present Incumbency Proves
He Is Remarkably Well
Qualified For Place.

IF HE RUNS HE IS A WINNER

The New York World says:

The Washington correspondent of the Sun is authority for the assertion that the opposition within the Democratic party to the re-nomination of President Wilson appears to be crystallizing around Champ Clark.

This may be true, but we doubt if Champ Clark regards such support as flattering or important. We doubt still further whether he is ambitious to play James G. Blaine to Woodrow Wilson's Benjamin Harrison. The role would hardly appeal to him.

After all, who compose this opposition to the President's re-nomination? Murphy and Tammany Hall, of course. William R. Hearst, of course. The Democratic job-mongers in the United States Senate, perhaps. Southern Democrats like Cole Blaise, of South Carolina; Vardaman, of Mississippi, and Colquitt, of Texas, whose opposition is a compliment to a real Democrat. What do they all amount to in the councils of the Democratic party? How many delegates can they send to the next Democratic National Convention?

Whether President Wilson is re-nominated or not depends upon himself. If he wants a re-nomination, the opposition will prove as weak and futile as the opposition to Cleveland. If he refuses a re-nomination, the party will be beaten in advance of the election, for he is the only candidate it can possibly elect.

It is not the President but the Democratic party that is on trial. The President has proved that he measures up to the full qualifications of his great office.

That a factional fight should have been started against the President in Congress may be taken as a matter of course. That is a Democratic way. Since Andrew Jackson's day, no Democratic President has been able to count on the loyalty of Democrats in Congress. No matter what the policies of a Democratic Administration may be, a certain number of Democratic members of Congress, actuated by motives of greed or revenge, can always be counted on to try to cut the throat of a Democratic President.

The revolt against President Wilson within the Democratic party has had the immediate effect of uniting and stimulating the Republican opposition. It may be able to defeat the Administration's program of legislation. It may disgust the country totally with the Democratic party and give the Republicans a walkover in 1916.

But one thing is certain. If Democrats are incapable of giving honest support to a President like Woodrow Wilson, he is the last Democratic President that this political generation is likely to see, and the Democratic party will revert to its former position as a mere party of opposition.

Who Won?

Berlin, Jan. 16.—The German army staff has issued a general order prohibiting in future troops in the field from fraternizing with forces of the enemy as they did at several points in the Western theater of war at Christmas. To such an extent was this fraternizing carried out that at one place, where the Germans and British played football Christmas Day, they agreed to suspend hostilities for two days more.

AN AGED MAIDEN LADY
DIES IN MASONVILLE

The Owensboro Messenger of Thursday says:

Miss Mary Burton, known to her many friends as "Polly," who was one of the oldest residents of Daviess county, passed away at 9:40 o'clock Wednesday morning at her home in Masonville, of infirmities incident to advanced age. Her condition became grave about a week ago.

Miss Burton was born in Ohio county, near Fordsville, May 25, 1829. She lived there during her girlhood and came to Daviess county with her parents. She was a devout member of the Methodist church at Masonville for more than sixty years.

Surviving her are two sisters, Miss Jane Burton, who is eighty-one years old, and Mrs. Miriam Holbrook, seventy-nine years old. Besides them are a half brother, Geo. W. Burton, and a half sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Veatch.

A THRILLING RESCUE
FROM MOUNTAIN LEDGE

Azusa, Cal., Jan. 15.—Rivalling in detail the features of a thrilling dime novel, the experience of Steve Saunders in rescuing Mrs. Lee Bonner and three young lads from a perilous position in the mountains recently, has made him a candidate for a Carnegie medal and one of the most talked-about men in town.

Mrs. Bonner and her little party, on returning recently from a trip to the mountains late in the afternoon, decided to take a short-cut, which would enable them to reach the city before dark. Progress down the grade became more difficult as they proceeded, and the picnickers finally found themselves stranded on a dangerous ledge, unable to continue the descent or to make their way back.

Their cries for help eventually reached Henry Williams, who was returning to the city. Williams hurried back to Barker's camp for assistance, and with Saunders and a young man named Coffin, hastened back to the rescue. Finding it impossible to reach the marooned party Saunders threw the lariat he had brought with him across and roped some shrubs. Finding they held, he climbed hand-over-hand to them.

By means of the rope Mrs. Bonner was finally lowered to safety, and the boys assisted back up the dangerous trail, to the Canyon road. Rescued and rescuers reached home before night had fallen, and Saunders is kept busy denying that he is a hero.

It isn't proper to talk about spiking a fellow's gun any more. The modern gun or cannon cannot be spiked. You might threaten to dislocate his breech-block and let it go at that.

An ordinary men's dollar top shirt weighs just one-half pound. The cotton raiser gets not over 5c for his part of it. It was first woven and stamped or printed and then made into a wearable garment, probably in some sweatshop at less than a dollar a dozen. There are probably a cent's worth of buttons and thread in it. There seems to be a large rake-off somewhere between the producer who gets less than ten cents a pound for a product that costs the consumer at the rate of two dollars a pound.

Something happened in the world's affairs last week that we never heard of occurring before. It was really remarkable and we must explain. Theodore Roosevelt actually refused to have himself snapped by a camera man! Now what do you think of that? Col. Roosevelt and Ex-President Taft were on the same train together, but innocent of each other's presence. When they alighted, a camera man tried to get them together for a group picture. Turning to the photo artist, the Colonel exclaimed: "Young man, don't act silly."

Mr. Richard N. Hudson, recently of Versailles, is the new President of the L. H. & St. L. Railroad Co., having been chosen by the Board of Directors. He succeeds the late Lucien J. Irwin. Mr. Hudson is an experienced railroad man and is not a new man even in his present position, having been Chief Engineer of the L. H. & St. L. in the "thirties." He is most thoroughly equipped, both with experience and ability, for the place to which he goes. It was fortunate that the Board could so easily pick a man of such fitness for so important a place.

How rare indeed is the virtue of human charity. Not the charity that grudgingly gives to the physical needs of a fellowman, but that spirit of love and consideration which allows for the faults and failures of the other mortal, while it does not lose sight of its own. The average person is too prone to criticize the life of another, never hesitating to think that perhaps the other one has trials and misfortunes of which the world knows nothing and which oppress the soul's aspirations like a blanket of gloom. If we knew each other better perhaps we would love each other more.

Almost every State in the Union—Kentucky especially—suffers from too much law-making. Senator Root told the American Bar Association that in five years—from 1909 to 1913 inclusive—Congress and the State Legislatures passed 62,014 laws, the most of these enactments of course originating with the State bodies. The trouble with Kentucky is too many laws and too many enactments which either prove unconstitutional or soon become inoperative through failure of enforcement. Many of these laws are unnecessary, inconsistent and their enforcement almost impossible.

It is announced that the Republicans intend to "put the best foot forward" this year in regard to the personnel of their party ticket and that only the best men in the organization will be selected to run. Of course the Primary election leaves this matter in the hands of the voters, but the Democrats should do the same thing. With a ticket composed of strong and able men, the Democrats should "win in a walk." And they should be sober, level-headed business men. It takes this sort of material to run State affairs properly. Also they should be furnished a party platform before they start on the finishing run.

The Interior Journal is rather incendiary and reckless, to put it mildly, in some of its political utterances. For instance, it says: "Strikes us as rather peculiar that all of this agitation for a platform convention by the Democrats before the primary should come from notorious whiskey papers," &c. Not speaking for anyone except itself, would any that The Herald is in favor of a convention before the primary, and all its readers and the public know that it has consistently fought the liquor business for years. We are frequently offered big whiskey ads at our own price, but we turn them all down. We kindly ask The Interior Journal to except The Herald from its too caustic comments anent the convention matter.

EXECUTION OF JEWS
FREQUENT IN RUSSIA

Berlin, Jan. 16.—Among the items issued by the Official Press Bureau to-day was the following: "Rabbi Dr. Arthur Levy states in the Hamburg Israelite Journal that since the beginning of the war Russian soldiers have committed pogroms in more than 215 towns of Russian Poland. In Stashew 11 Jews were hanged in a synagogue. In Kiodawa two representative members of the Jewish community were hanged on a Friday upon coming home from religious services. Their wives were required to fetch the ropes and their bodies were left hanging 24 hours from their own balconies. The Jewish houses in the neighborhood were forbidden to close their shutters.

"At Shidlowec several Jewish girls killed themselves after being attacked by soldiers. In Petrikov in the course of a Friday night service the Governor and police took the Shoras from its sacred place in pretended search for a secret telephone.

"At Bechawa, in the Province of Lublin, 78 Jews were hanged in one day. In Kromotow houses were burned and the Jewish women and children were nearly all killed. "In Zdunska-Wola outrages too horrible for description were perpetrated. One Jewish Russian soldier who came home wounded found his wife had been killed by his comrades."

EMPLOYEES' SUGGESTIONS TO THEIR EMPLOYERS

An open letter from employees to employers "in and about the city of New York" strongly urges, as a means of enlarging the labor market, these business policies:

"If your product is not subject to seasonal fluctuations or changes in style, manufacture now a reserve stock against a future market.

"If your output is running below normal, utilize this slack period to overhaul and repair your plant and machinery.

"If you are unable to give full time employment to your entire force, employ the fullest possible number for part time.

"If you contemplate making additions to your plant, do it now."

"Every sign," reads this letter, "points to a steady and early improvement in business conditions."

SPRING EXAMINATIONS
FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE

Washington, Jan. 16.—The Civil Service Commission to-day announced that its customary spring examinations for the departmental service in Washington will be held in Kentucky as follows:

Ashland, March 10 and 23 and April 14; Bowling Green, March 10 and 15 and April 14; Covington, March 10 and 27 and April 14; Lexington, March 10 and 24 and April 14; Louisville, March 10 and 19 and April 14; Middlesboro, March 10 and 18 and April 14; Paducah, March 10 and 16 and April 14; Somerset, March 10 and 25 and April 14.

TAKE CASH ALONG IF YOU ARE GOING WEST

San Francisco, Jan. 18.—Desire to see the Panama Pacific Exposition has flooded the offices of the fair with 6,000 applicants for employment while but 1,000 positions are open to women.

Many applicants already have come here without awaiting replies, and are swelling the number of the unemployed.

Women's unions are sending letters to all branches urging that members be discouraged from coming to San Francisco. Between 15,000 and 20,000 unemployed women stenographers and office assistants are reported in need.

There are said to be five certain entries in the gubernatorial race for Governor—McDermott, Rosworth, Stanley, Garnett and Newman.

HON. BEN JOHNSON
EXPLAINS STAND

On Question Of National Prohibition.

GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE

Is His Plea—Wants Them
Given Privilege Of Voting
Their Opinion.

LET VOTERS SETTLE QUESTION

The following is the speech of Hon. Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, in the House of Representatives, December 22, 1914.

The House had under consideration the joint resolution (H. J. Res. 168) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting the sale, etc., of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.

Mr. Johnson, of Kentucky: Mr. Speaker, I shall avail myself of the opportunity offered to give some, at least, of the reasons why I vote for what is known as the amended Hobson resolution.

As I understand the proposition, and as everyone must of necessity understand it, we are not called upon to-day to vote either "for" or "against" prohibition. The single question that a member of this House must now answer is: Is he willing or unwilling to have the question of prohibition submitted to the people themselves for their determination?

More than 6,000,000 good citizens of this country have availed themselves of the privilege of "petition" already given them under the Constitution of the United States. By that "petition" they ask the Congress to give to them more than a submission of the question whether they may or may not have prohibition.

Thousands of those who live in the Congressional District which I have the honor to represent have petitioned me, not as an individual citizen but as their Representative, to give them the right of suffrage upon this question.

Those who oppose prohibition ask me to vote against prohibition, while all those who favor it ask me, as a member of Congress, to vote, not for prohibition, but for a measure which will let them vote.

Can I justly answer their plea by saying to them that I concede their right to vote for me as their Representative and at the same time deny them the privilege of voting upon the most agitated question now before the American people?

If the question were one wrong or vicious in itself, or if the question were one urged by only a small portion of the people, I might, with the very best of reasons, stand against submission.

But how can I, in my representative capacity, refuse the thousands and thousands of my own constituents their plea for the right to vote upon a question that is not vicious in itself? This is the question which I must answer by my vote upon this occasion.

The fundamental doctrine upon which this great Government is founded is: All power is inherent in the people.

Does any man question that our ancestors could have inserted a prohibition clause in the Constitution if they had so desired? The people were then given a clean piece of paper upon which to write a constitution. In writing it they were careful to protect future generations by reserving to them the right to add to that Constitution such provisions as the people themselves, later on, deemed best for their own welfare.

If our fathers had thought that the original Constitution contained wisdom enough for all ages, they would not have made provision for amending that instrument.

Because the 3,000,000 people who then made up the United States did not see fit to include prohibition in the Constitution, is no argument that the 100,000,000 who now, a century and a quarter later, make up the Nation, should not have the right to vote upon the question as an amendment to that original paper.

Millions of our people petitioned Congress to give them the right to vote upon the question whether or not we should submit the income-tax proposition. That right was granted them by Congress.

Again, millions of our people petitioned Congress to give them the right to vote upon the question whether or not we should elect United States Senators by the people. That right, too, was granted them by Congress.

In my humble judgment there is no better way to have government of the people than to have it by the people.

That is all which the proposed amendment to the Constitution seeks to accomplish.

When the question of prohibition has been submitted to the people, every man can then vote just as he pleases.

The majority in this instance, as in all other instances where we have popular government, will control.

Some of our "wet" citizens oppose submission because they already have the condition which meets their views.

But suppose we now had constitutional prohibition. Would those who are "wet" be entirely satisfied with the vote of their Representative in Congress if he, by his vote, denied their petition for a submission in order to give the opportunity to do away with prohibition?

Would they not feel aggrieved if their Representatives, by his vote, denied them the right of vote?

The old question, "Whose ox is gored?" comes up now.

Those who are satisfied with present conditions want no submission of the question.

Those who are dissatisfied with present conditions clamor for the submission of the question to all the people.

This question, in my judgment, is the property of all the people.

I, for one, therefore, am willing that they take their own question to themselves for final determination.

I am convinced that all fair-minded men will—within themselves, at least—admit that there can be no just complaint or criticism of those of us here who delegate to the people the right of government by the people.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I shall cast my vote as a Representative of the people to let the people control.

Also we know some men whose trains of thought haul dirt mostly.

Woman So Weak and Nervous
Could Not Stand Her Children
Near Her—Vinol
Changed Everything for Her

Plant City, Fla.—"I wish I could tell everybody about Vinol. For nine years I was in bad health. I got so I could not sleep, and I could not stand it to have my children come near me. I could not even sew or do any heavy housework. I was simply tired all the time. I tried so many medicines I could not recall them all, but nothing did me any good. One day a friend asked me to try Vinol and said it was the best tonic she ever saw. I did so, and soon got the first good night's sleep I had had for a long time. Now I sleep well, my appetite is good, my nervousness is all gone and I am so strong and well I do all my housework and work in my flower garden without feeling tired or nervous. Vinol has made me a well and happy woman."

—Mrs. C. H. MILLER, Plant City, Fla. Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cod livers (without oil) and tonic iron.

We ask every weak, run-down, nervous person in this vicinity to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to benefit.

E. P. Barnes & Bro.'s Annual Profit-Sharing Sale will be started at their Beaver Dam store next Saturday morning, to run to and including February 6th—two weeks. This wide-awake firm is going to offer some rare bargains during this sale. As a proof of what we say we call your attention to their double-page advertisement found in this issue of The Herald.

Mr. W. C. Schlemmer, the baker, has been absent the past few days at Cannelton, Ind., attending the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Phillip Schlemmer, who died last Saturday and was buried Monday evening. Pneumonia was the disease that carried Mrs. Schlemmer away. She was nearly 81 years old. She had visited her son here on several occasions and was a most estimable old lady.

Elsewhere in The Herald to-day will be found the announcement of Prof. H. H. Cherry, of Bowling Green, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky. For years Prof. Cherry has stood among the leaders in the State's educational and material advancement and is one of Kentucky's most able and trustworthy citizens. If nominated and elected he will put into practice, as the State's Chief Executive, the high ideals of government for which he has stood so long. His formal announcement in another column is worth reading.

Sheriff S. O. Keown returned from Arkansas last Wednesday night where he had gone with a requisition from Governor McCreary, of Kentucky, for the arrest of Whalin King, wanted here for deserting his wife whom, it is said, he had married to escape prosecution for seduction. King was arrested at Tyrone, Ark., and turned over to Sheriff Keown, who took him to Little Rock, Ark., where Gov. Hayes at once honored the requisition of Governor McCreary. King was lodged in jail here Wednesday night but executed bond and was released from custody last Thursday.

Killing in Hayti.
There was a killing in Hayti Hartford's colored suburb, last Monday night about 8 o'clock, when Sam Walker killed Robert Nall—both negroes. The shooting occurred on the pavement near the store of Tessie Bassett, colored. It is supposed that the trouble grew out of a fight between Nall and the Bassett woman, when Walker took his sister's (Tessie's) part. Nall was driven out of the house but returned later, when the trouble was renewed and the shooting occurred. Nall lived only a short while after being shot and was left lying in the snow until after he died. Indications showed that he had wallowed around in the snow in his death agonies. The fatal bullet entered near the middle of his breast.

Sam Walker, the man who did the shooting, skipped out immediately after the shooting and at last account had not been arrested. Walker is about 25 and Nall about 30 years of age.

Notice To Teachers.
The first examination for Common School Diplomas will be held on Friday and Saturday, January 29th and 30th, at Hartford, Fordsville, Rockport and Centertown. All young ladies and gentlemen prepared to pass are urgently requested to be present.

Last year, with 134 graduates, we led every county in the State. May we not hope to surpass that number during 1915? Sincerely, OZNA SHULTS, S. S. O. C.

Fiscal Court in Session.
The Ohio County Fiscal Court convened in court hall here last Monday and will likely be in session the remainder of this week. County Judge John B. Wilson, present and presiding, County Attorney C. E. Smith and the following Justices present: W. S. Dean, B. W. Taylor, L. A. McDaniel, S. W. Leach, Wilson Smith, R. C. Tichenor, B. F. Rice and Ed. Shown.

Big Fire At Morgantown.
A fire at Morgantown, Ky., about one o'clock last Monday morning destroyed the First Baptist Church, built of brick, valued at $8,000—no insurance. Also a two-story frame building, and three warehouses occupied by Daugherty & Durham, general merchandise, were burned. The loss of the latter, about $4,000, is partially covered by insurance.

The fire is said to have started from some unknown cause in one of the warehouses. These buildings belonged to Mrs. E. P. James. The Cole Hotel and the residence of Mrs. E. P. James were slightly damaged.

A. S. of E. Speaking.
National president Chryst, of the A. S. of E., spoke at the court house in Hartford yesterday afternoon to a fair sized audience of Ohio county farmers who took much interest in what president Chryst had to say.

Quite a number present signified their intention to join a local lodge of A. S. of E. to be organized at once.

President Chryst is scheduled to speak at the following places in Ohio county:

Dundee, Wednesday, January 20, 1 p. m.
Narrows, Thursday, January 21, 10 a. m.
Buford, Friday, Jan. 22, 1 p. m.
Centertown, Saturday, January 23, 1 p. m.

Horses Dying.
Mr. Joseph W. Wilson, who purchased property in Hartford and moved his family here to send his children to school, lost a fine horse last Saturday night. This is the second valuable horse he has lost in the past ten days. The other, a fine roadster that he had refused $165 for, died week before last on his farm near Prentiss, this county.

Mr. Albert Patterson and Mr. Robert Reid, of the same vicinity, have had stock die within the last few days. The former lost one and the latter two valuable horses. Several deaths of horses are reported from near Cronwell, this county. In fact much stock is dying in many sections of the county, all apparently from the new disease so fatal to horses.

A Noted Visitor.
Mr. Percy Smallwood, of Pittsburg, Pa., is visiting his father-in-law, Mr. J. L. Davison, of Fordsville, this county. Mr. Smallwood has a wide reputation, being the champion runner of the world. He holds the world's record in the one, three, five, ten, twelve and fifteen-mile running race.

Time: One mile, 4 minutes and 17 seconds; three miles, 14 minutes and 19 seconds; five miles, 24 minutes and 20 seconds; ten miles, 50 minutes and 22 seconds; twelve miles, one hour, 4 minutes and 17 seconds, and fifteen miles, one hour, 20 minutes and 22 seconds.

He likewise holds the world's record in the fifteen-mile relay race. That is, he holds the world's record in a fifteen mile race, where a new man is started against him at the end of five and ten miles.

Closer to the Sun.
Recently a gentleman who travels out of Paris was in the Kentucky mountains, sixty miles from a railroad. A man asked him the time. The gentleman looked at his watch and told the inquirer, "That's railroad time, ain't it?" said the man.

"Yes," said the Paris man.

"Well, we don't go by railroad time up here," said the man, "we go by sun time 'cause we are closer to the sun than we are to the railroad."—[Paris Democrat.]

Stray Mule.
A mouse-colored mule about 14 or 15 hands high got out and ran away from my premises. The mule was raised near Hartford. I will pay a liberal reward for its return or information leading to its return.

DUNDEE.

Jan. 18.—Saturday was road-letting out by Engineer Benton, but not much was done.

A spring school began here Monday, Miss Hattie Thomas, of Masco, Daviess county, as teacher. Quite a number of students.

Mrs. Mervil Grant died Sunday near Davison Station and was buried at the Petty graveyard, near Narrows, Monday. She had been sick quite a while.

Mrs. Sallie Coppage is moving here from Narrows.

Mr. R. B. Canary, of Fordsville, was in our town Monday.

Mr. Ed. Bowers has moved from our place to below Owensboro to live on a farm for the present year.

Mr. Melvin Westerfield has moved to his new house on the farm which he bought of W. H. Moore on the Narrows road.

Welcome Visitors.
The following were among The Herald's recent callers: M. A. Hines, Livermore, Ky.; C. F. King and Estill Stevens, Hartford, Route 1; L. F. Bennett, T. H. Tatum, E. P. Barnard and J. T. Shaver, Hartford, Route 2; J. E. Phillips and Albert Chinn, Beaver Dam, Route 2; H. B. Bean and W. H. Rhoads, Hartford; Ernest E. Wilson, Beaver Dam, Route 1; W. H. Candiff, Hartford, Route 6; Robert Davis, Hartford, Route 5, and Miss Belle Berryman, Hartford, Route 4.

Many Jews in British Army.
London, Jan. 14.—More than 10,000 Jews are now serving in the British army and navy and the army casualty lists show that six officers and over forty enlisted men have been killed and 150 reported wounded or missing, in addition.

These figures are compiled by the Rev. Michael Adler, the senior Jewish chaplain to the forces. The Rev.

Adler has a son in the Royal Fusiliers, and he himself expects to leave for the front soon.

If you are contemplating putting a roof on your house, barn, stable or any other building, it will pay you to call and get my prices before buying elsewhere, for I can save you money. PAUL WOODWARD,

Profit-Sharing Sale

BEGINS SATURDAY, JANUARY 23; Closes February 6.

To Share in the Profits You Must Pay Cash or Produce Checks for Your Purchases. Merchandise Charged Will be at Regular Prices.

For two weeks we are going to give you a season of Profit-Sharing. We are going to clear the decks for early Spring action. We are going to rid our stock of all odd lots from every department. We are going to put all strictly Winter Merchandise in the hands of customers who appreciate an opportunity to buy the season's necessities at Profit-Sharing prices. Furthermore, immediately after this sale closes, we take our annual inventory. CASH IS MUCH EASIER COUNTED THAN MERCHANDISE. For this reason we propose to go the limit on price reductions. For this reason we want to turn all seasonable Merchandise into cash.

CHERRY SEEKS GOVERNORSHIP

Educator to Be Candidate at Democratic Primaries.

Worked His Way Through School and After Years of Struggling With Unsympathetic World Was Made Head of Western Kentucky State Normal School.

H. H. Cherry, the noted educator of Bowling Green, has announced his candidacy for governor of Kentucky, subject to the Democratic primary Aug. 7, 1915.

He was born in a log cabin, among the sand hills of northwestern Warren county, Kentucky, forty-eight years ago. He worked on his father's little ridge farm and attended school from six to eight years each year and learned by the time he was twenty-one years of age to read, write and cipher a little. When he became of age his father gave him the privilege of cutting down some hickory trees and splitting them into ax handles and handling it with a yoke of oxen to Bowling Green, a distance of nine miles, over an almost impassable road. After seven months of hard labor he managed to accumulate $72. This was his first real business experience. With the $72 he started on foot through snow twelve inches deep to his native city to enter school. For more than five years he worked his way through school and during much of the time did self boarding. He cooked his meals on a one-eyed one of the greatest educational institutions of the south. Dr. Cherry has been an active worker in all endeavors looking toward the development of a "Greater Kentucky." This has been his aim in the past and will be in the future. He was president of the Kentucky Educational association, a member of the educational campaign commission of 1906, a member of the literacy commission, a member of the board of directors of the Southern Educational association, chairman of the statewide farmers' chaquoqua, organization, and a member of many other progressive educational and industrial organizations organized in the interest of a greater state.

Owing to the many exacting executive duties Dr. Cherry has been unable to find time to do any teaching during the past twelve years. Practically all his life has been devoted to an executive work. It is a source of great pride to him that he has made a business success in the county in which he was born and reared, without a single blot on his record, and the people all love and respect him. He is perfectly willing for the people of his native county to say whether he is qualified for the high honor he seeks.

Dr. Cherry in making his formal announcement said in part: "If I am elected governor, I shall be free from all entanglements and not an appointee or slave of any faction, organization or machine. I would rather preserve my integrity, die a pauper, and go down in defeat than make a single promise that would cripple public efficiency or destroy my usefulness while in office. My motive for entering this race is higher than the holding of office, the drawing of a salary or being a dummy governor. If I am elected I shall, on entering office, be free as the 'mountain air' free to fight for the rights of the people and free to take the executive initiative in the work of transacting public business. I shall do my utmost to make the campaign, which I shall earnestly prosecute, a patriotic cause, a vision of a greater Kentucky; and I shall try to appeal to the intelligence and higher motives of men rather than to their prejudice and ignorance."

DR. H. H. CHERRY,
President Western Kentucky State Normal School, Bowling Green, Ky.

barren stove and in this way, boarded himself for less than $5 per month. This training and experience prepared him for other duties, broadened his sympathies and created within him a desire to assist the struggling boys and girls to secure an education and to become trained workers for a greater Kentucky.

He chartered and organized a private school in Bowling Green in 1892 and commenced without buildings and without money. Notwithstanding the low rates of tuition and board, which were put within the reach of the poor boys and girls, and one of the worst financial panics ever known in this country, the school grew from three small rooms to a magnificent educational plant and from twenty-eight students enrolled during the first six months of its existence to an annual enrollment of more than one thousand. Without a dollar of endowment the institution met its obligations punctually and became a noted educational and business success. This long executive experience trained him in modern business methods and gave him a larger knowledge of the needs of the state.

When the state normal schools were established Dr. Cherry was unanimously elected president of the Western Kentucky State Normal school without having made application for the position. It required a vast amount of constructive work to organize the new institution and develop it upon a good business basis and upon the educational needs of the state. It required not only a knowledge of the educational problems, but executive ability. The state normal school was opened nine years ago, but notwithstanding this short period it enrolled last year seventeen hundred and nine different student-teachers, who are now largely engaged in teaching the boys and girls in the rural schools of Kentucky. The probe committee, appointed by the last general assembly in speaking of the work of the Western Normal, over which Dr. Cherry presided, said in part: "We had nothing about this institution to criticize but a very great deal to commend; and we would suggest that if all of the institutions of Kentucky, receiving state aid would, with the same regard for economy and efficiency, discharge their respective duties to the commonwealth of Kentucky, at all times bearing in mind that the taxpayers of the state are to be given due consideration there would not be any occasion for a committee of this kind to investigate state institutions to which appropriations have been made or may hereafter be made."

Hon. Sherman Goodpastor, the state inspector, in his written report submitted to the governor last April, made the following statement: "Dr. H. H. Cherry is possessed of a remarkable executive ability, the results of which are evident in every department of the institution; and to him must be given the credit of building up, in a comparatively short time,

In making his opening announcement Dr. Cherry's theme is "A Greater Kentucky," and some of the things for which he declares are as follows:

"The need of making a few vital laws and the strict enforcement of laws already made is greater than the need for the making of many new laws."

He is opposed to any increase in the tax rate, but favors a revision of our tax laws and a reorganization of our financial system, so that waste and extravagance will be eliminated and economy substituted, to the end that the state debt may be extinguished and the business of the state run within its income.

He opposes any extra appropriations until the state is able to meet her obligations promptly.

He is opposed to "the secret control of government by machine manipulators who pool the people's vote and sell the offices to the highest bidder," and also to the control of legislation by the representatives of great corporate interests, and would favor the enactment of a "corrupt practices act," and to the making of such other laws as will secure free elections. He favors adequate regulation of railroads and other public service corporations to the extent that exorbitant rates and unjust burdens may not be imposed on the people.

He favors an "anti-pass" law, in compliance with the demands of the constitution.

He declares that less politics and more business is what Kentucky needs.

Recognizing that "universal progress begins and ends with the soil," he would strongly advocate all legislation for building up our agricultural interests and for bettering conditions in rural Kentucky—such as better roads and the further development and improvement of our rural schools, so that the boys and girls in the country may have equal advantages with those in the city.

He believes that some reorganization of our penitentiaries and asylums is necessary and that the present convict labor system should be abolished.

He says the people have a right to demand that every dollar paid for the maintenance of government render a dollar's worth of service and that every person elected or appointed to a government position should render honest labor and do a full day's work.

He is a strong advocate of temperance and would insist on a rigid enforcement of all temperance laws, and if any bill were passed to take a step backward on this subject he would veto it. He feels that the cause of temperance would suffer if any effort were made to substitute, at this time, statewide prohibition for local option with the county as the unit. If you endorse this character of man and the principles he advocates, Mr. Cherry would appreciate your support, and if you feel like writing him he would be glad to hear from you.

WILSON IS GRAND-DADDY ---DAUGHTER BEARS A SON

President Makes No Effort To Conceal His Joy Over the Event.

Washington, Jan. 17.—A son was born at the White House to-day to Mrs. Frances Bowles Sayre, President Wilson's second daughter. Mrs. Sayre and the child are reported to be doing well.

The child was born at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, but the fact was not formally announced until 6 o'clock, when Secretary Tumulty gave out the following statement: "Dr. Grayson, the White House physician, states that at 4:30 o'clock Mrs. Sayre gave birth to a fine boy. Everything went perfectly, and both are doing well."

The boy weighed seven and a half pounds. He announced his arrival by a series of cries, which gave assurance that his lungs were in excellent condition.

President Wilson made no effort to conceal his joy when informed that the child was a boy, and that Mrs. Sayre was well. His face was wreathed in smiles for hours afterwards. It was his first grandchild and the President has no boys of his own.

Mr. Sayre, who is assistant to President Garfield of Williams College, was not at the White House when his son was born. Dr. Grayson reached him on the telephone at Williamstown, Mass., at 5 o'clock this morning, and he arrived here late to-night.

A corps of special nurses were in attendance. Dr. E. P. Davis, a specialist of Philadelphia, had been called in by Dr. Grayson.

A name has not been selected to-night, but it was expected that the child would be named for his grandfather. The christening is expected to be held in the White House before the return of Mrs. Sayre to her home in Williamstown. Congratulations poured into the White House to-night.

SHOOTS GIRL IN CHURCH; ENDS OWN LIFE AT HOME

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 17.—A panic was caused during services in the Church of God to-night when Frederick C. Erdman shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Hattie Gauwitz, his former sweetheart, and then killed himself. Erdman met the young woman while on her way to church and asked her to take him back, but she refused. She entered the church, taking a seat near the front. Erdman waited until the services started, then opened a side door, directly behind Miss Gauwitz, and opened fire, shooting his victim in the back. The woman fell to the floor, while the audience made a rush for the front door. Several persons are in a serious condition from being trampled on. Erdman, after the shooting, made his way on a freight train to his home in the south end of the city, nearly four miles distant. Here he told his relatives of his deed, went to his room, took poison and then shot himself. He died shortly after the police arrived.

KILLING SUNDAY NIGHT —SLEW HIS FATHER-IN-LAW

Stanford, Ky., Jan. 18.—Yates W. Burton, a prominent farmer of Wayne county, was shot twice and instantly killed by his son-in-law, Henry Hudson, three miles south of Hustonville, this county, at 9 o'clock Sunday night.

Accompanied by Grover Ard, Burton rode through from Wayne on a mule last night and aroused Hudson and his wife from bed and demanded a settlement with Hudson, who was Burton's partner in the ownership of the farm on which Hudson lived.

Words ensued and Burton was killed. Officers brought Hudson to jail here at 2 o'clock this morning.

He says that he was forced to shoot in self-defense. A pistol was found in an inside pocket of Burton's coat.

GOVERNMENT TO AID UNEMPLOYEDNational Bureau Reaching Out

BY U. S. LABOR DEPARTMENT

Will Undertake To Seek Out
The Manless Job For Jobless Man.

THE POST-OFFICES WILL HELP

Washington, Jan. 14.—A national employment bureau, reaching every section of the United States, will be put in operation by the Department of Labor this week, carrying out a suggestion made by President Wilson in his Indianapolis speech for "a systematic method of helping the working man of America."

Preliminary work for the bureau has been completed. It was announced to-night by Commissioner Caminetti, of the Immigration Bureau, and instructions have been sent to the thousands of Postmasters and rural mail carriers throughout the country and to nearly 200,000 field agents of the Department of Agriculture who will co-operate with the Labor Department to bring the jobless man and the manless job together.

All agents of the Immigration Bureau also will participate in the huge task. Caminetti said, and the blanks and reports for their use already have been printed and will be forwarded without delay.

The general plan of the Employment Bureau was outlined by Caminetti as follows:

"Notices will be posted in all post-offices announcing that applications for work or workers will be received by the Postmaster who will be supplied with forms to be filled out and forwarded to the Labor Department agent in charge of the zone in which the office is located."

"The distribution branch of the immigration service will handle this part of the work and to this branch also will go the reports of the Department of Agriculture agents as to sections where help is needed in harvesting or other work. Applicants will then be informed of the place where they can obtain work of the kind they seek and at the nearest point to them, the postal service acting as the distributing and collection agency for applications and replies throughout the transactions."

Caminetti said the system had been tried out in a small way and the results had been most satisfactory. After the fire at Salem, Mass., last June, when nearly 4,000 factory operatives were thrown out of employment, the Labor Department succeeded in finding work for many of them.

By a curious coincidence Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Labor, approved only recently—the date of the President's speech—the final report made to him by Mr. Caminetti announcing the completion of the plans.

In this report Commissioner Caminetti said:

"I am pleased to report that the plan of organization for furnishing laborers to farmers and other employers is complete and ready for operation throughout the United States. The officers at their respective stations have been instructed in the methods that have been in use under the auspices of the division of information in the work of distribution hitherto in force.

"David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, yesterday addressed a letter to all officers of that department ordering them to co-operate in the scheme for the employment and distribution of laborers in the United States. He said that future general instructions would be printed in the weekly news letter of the department."

"The employees of the Department of Agriculture are requested to report the necessity for workers in the locality where they reside and also to notify farmers of the scheme. Application blanks delivered to them are to be returned to the Postmaster of the nearest office."

L. H. & ST. L. RAILWAYIs Mr. R. N. Hudson, a Man Of Much Ability and Long Experience.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 15.—Richard N. Hudson is the new president of the L. H. & St. L. Railroad Co. Mr. Hudson was named at a meeting of the L. H. & St. L. board. He at once assumed the office. Mr. Hudson succeeds the late Lucien J. Irwin.

Jefferson D. Stewart, president of the Union National Bank, at the board meeting, was named a director of the L. H. & St. L. to fill the vacancy created by the death of President Irwin.

The new president comes from Versailles, where he has for several years been superintendent of the Louisville and Atlantic division of the L. and N., extending from Versailles to Jackson, in Eastern Kentucky.

Mr. Hudson is not a new man with the L. H. & St. L. In the "nineties" he came to the L. H. & St. L. as chief engineer. In that capacity he gained a thorough acquaintance with the physical condition of the road. It was from the L. H. & St. L. he went to the Louisville and Atlantic as general superintendent.

The selection of the L. H. & St. L. president is made by the L. & N., which controls the L. H. & St. L. through stock ownership. That Mr. Hudson was chosen means, of course, that he is a practical, all-around railroad man. The duties of general manager, combined with that of president of the L. H. & St. L. means that the chief executive must have a working knowledge of many phases of railroad business.

President Hudson is a man of about forty-five years. He is a native of Virginia, having been born at Louisa Court House. As a locating engineer he began his railroad career with the Mobile and Alabama, formerly a dependency of the L. & N., but completely taken over by the L. & N. about a year ago. It was from the Mobile and Alabama that he came to the L. H. & St. L., later to go to the Louisville and Atlantic and now to return to the L. H. & St. L. as president.

Mr. Hudson married Miss Jessie Gregory, of Cloverport, Ky. They have one daughter, Mrs. Kirtley Cleveland.

SOME PEN-PICTURES OF THE LAND OF FLOWERSNearly Surrounded By Water
Where "Birds" Eat Out Of One's Hand.

(Special to The Herald.)

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 15.—We arrived here the night of the 20th of December, 1914, worn out but in good health. Our daughter and family met us at the depot with an auto and took us to their home, where we rested for a day or so before undertaking to look the town over. They say the weather has been very cold and gloomy for this latitude for the last two weeks. The thermometer has been down as low as 44 and the sea air is very penetrating, so much so that we feel it as much as we feel it in Kentucky at 18 or 20. This is the jumping off place. See the map.

We have water almost all around us, and steamers go in all directions from here. Long docks reach out into the bays to deep water, and there are seats all along them where one can sit and fish all day. Thousands of people take advantage of the opportunity, catching fish from the size of our minnows up to Spanish mackerel weighing 10 and 15 pounds. The balloon fish is quite a curiosity to us. I have caught some of them. After they are thrown out of the water they begin to puff up like a toad when he determines to excel the ox in size. They also have teeth very much like our ground hog, and can bite quite severely. I have never seen one that would weigh more than two pounds.

The sea birds are protected by law, and the consequence is that they are very gentle. The gulls will follow the vessels across the bays and fight for such food as may be thrown overboard. They are expert on the wing as well as in the water, frequently catching food thrown to them before it falls to the water. The pelicans—and there are lots of them—are so tame that they will take food from the hand, and try to steal a fisherman's catch when he draws it to the surface. I saw one of them grab a small fish as it was drawn out of the water, and the hook caught in his beak, so the nimrod caught a fish and a bird at one and the same time. They sit around on the water or on the pier and wait patiently Micawber-like—waiting for something to turn up.

A noble bird is the pelican. They say that he can hold in his beak

Food enough to last him a week. But I do not see how the helican.

This town, or city, is principally built up for the convenience of northern tourists. They claim that the town normally has 30,000 inhabitants and 20,000 visitors and everything is bent in the direction of entertainment and pleasure for tourists. People from every State in the Union come here every year to spend at least part of the winter.

The markets are full of all kinds of sub-tropical fruits, and nuts. Oranges and grape fruit are very cheap. Strange as it may appear, apples are as common here as they are in Kentucky and as cheap, if not cheaper, than in Hartford. Prices on the necessities of life are some higher than in Kentucky but the saving in fuel and heavy clothing will balance the account.

This is a great resort for Grand Army men. Many are located here for the winter, and others come here from St. Cloud, Fla., on fishing outings. They have a G. A. R. Post here and are very attentive to visiting comrades. They insist on old Confederates meeting with the Post and many of them visit the Confederate camp meetings.

This is the first time I have ever seen loading reduced to a science. Gray headed men and women are on the streets all day long with nothing to do but breathe the salt air and gossip. Some of the more restless go to the city park and pitch quoits and horseshoes, and others play backgammon, chess, checkers and dominoes, but I have not seen a marble since I came here. Fishing is another great recreation.

Two old Ohio county boys are located in this State and seem to have made a hit. Randolph Townsend Wedding, of Hartford, is at the head of a large nursery, with good prospects of success. He has a pleasant home and is doing well. Leighton L. Reid, of Rockport, is located in Bradentown, on Manatee river, and has employment in the First National Bank there.

This city has some very fine buildings and the churches are as fine and imposing as you will find in any city of the South. There are miles and miles of concrete sidewalks, said to be more than any city of its size in the United States.

When we left Kentucky on the 17th day of December, 1914, the snow was two inches deep and the weather was very cold. We found snow as low down as Red Bay, Ala., and in protected places down near Birmingham, but since we left Birmingham we have not seen so much as a frost, and the people are buying ice all the year around.

THE INCOME TAX AND RATIO OF AUTOMOBILES

There are 44 persons in the United States who report an income of $1,000,000 a year or over. There are only 357,598 individuals who report an income in excess of $2,500. Of these $1,982 live in New York. From the appearance of Broadway at night and the number of automobiles in sight we had thought that there were at least half a million people in this city spending $50,000 a year. There is food for reflection in the fact that though there are only 357,598 people in the country reporting incomes of $2,500 or over, there are 1,300,000 automobiles in use. We wonder how the remaining 942,402 owners of automobiles manage to run them so cheaply.—[Commerce and Finance.]

COULD SCARCELY
WALK ABOUTAnd For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst."

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui, I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentle-acting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallow cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.

HENRY BOSWORTH IN RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP IN OLD KENTUCKY

State Auditor Who Has Helped to Bring About Fairer Valuation of Franchises of Big Corporations Is a Candidate For Democratic Nomination.

RUNNING ON RECORD AS PUBLIC SERVANT

Full Day's Work For Full Day's Pay and a Square Deal in Taxation For Rich and Poor Alike in His Platform.

To the Democrats of Kentucky:
After due reflection I have fully decided to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of this great state. I do this with a full sense of the high responsibility incurred, if nominated, and the obligations that will rest upon me if elected.

I have been a Democrat all my life and have never voted against a party nominee. My father before me was a Democrat, and I am proud to say that I have five brothers of the same faith, all of whom have been equally loyal with myself to the Democratic faith, and I now ask that the people of this great commonwealth shall railroad companies and other corporations liable to a franchise tax had been inadequately assessed for many years, and consequently were not paying their fair proportion of the taxes due the state and the counties and cities therein. During my campaign for auditor in 1911, I pledged the people that, if elected, I would fully and fairly investigate this subject and, if I found that the franchises of these corporations were not fairly assessed, as chairman of the board I would use my power to correct any official delinquency that had theretofore existed in that respect.

Soon after entering upon my official duties as auditor I caused a careful examination to be made of the reports made by all corporations for assessment purposes to ascertain whether these corporations in the past had been adequately assessed for the purposes of finding out the truth as to the actual value of this character of property in the state.

I had this information carefully prepared, in writing, and when the time came to assess these franchises laid it before my colleagues on this board.

The result of the investigation I made of this subject showed that most of the small companies doing business in the state had previously been properly assessed; but the large corporations of the state, those with great power and political influence, had been grossly under-assessed (either by design or through incompetency). One of the most glaring examples of favoritism extended by my predecessors in office was that of tended by the companies that the property of the railroad companies was assessed at more than its real value by the present board, and that the assessment against farm lands and city lots must be raised before the assessment against the property of the railroad companies could be increased.

I do not believe the farm lands of this state are generally assessed for taxation and valuation as low as one-half of their real value. If the value of the farm lands of this state should be estimated by capitalizing the net income derived therefrom on the basis of 6 per cent, which method is employed to find the value of railroad property, it would be demonstrated that real estate at present is assessed at approximately the full value thereof. In other words, if the same mode or method of ascertaining value should be applied to find the value of real estate it would be shown that real estate is assessed at its full value. The court, preliminary to issuing an injunction, required these companies to pay on a valuation greatly in excess of any sum they had paid on in previous years. The aggregate increase in the amount of taxes paid by these companies in the year 1912 over the year 1911 was about $125,000. In the years 1913 and 1914 a like sum was collected from these companies. During the three years of my administration these four companies have paid to the state $375,000 more in taxes than was paid by them during a like period of time under the administration of my immediate predecessors. These suits now pending, when decided, will determine finally the amount of taxes these companies will have to pay annually to the state in the future, and the question of the real value of this property will no longer be open to discussion.

It is important that the question of value of these franchises should be judicially determined and forever settled, because the belief has prevailed in this state among all the people for some years that the big corporations of the state were always active in politics of the two dominant parties in the state, with the end in view of being favored in the assessment of their franchises. With franchises of corporations assessed at their real value, as they should be, the corporations will be taken out of politics in this state, as they ought to be.

As auditor of the state for the past three years I have also been a member of the sinking fund commission of the state and, having information gained while acting in that capacity, I believe I am thoroughly familiar with the fiscal affairs of the state.

I am in favor of and, if elected, will advocate the passage of a law that will require that all state supplies used at all state institutions be purchased by the competitive bidding system, and that the lowest open bid for supplies furnished all institutions be accepted, and I believe the state could easily save $100,000 a year by inaugurating such a system.

I am in favor of and will work for, if elected governor, the establishment of a system of taxation that will be fair and just to rich and poor alike, and that will cause the lifting of personal property for taxation, which now, because of the rate of taxation in many taxing districts, does not pay any taxes at all, and that will place the burden of taxation where it belongs, on those best able to bear it. I am in favor of such legislation, or of a constitutional amendment, if necessary, to put a fixed and definite limit upon the rate of taxation in Kentucky, a step which I believe will cause our officials to follow a policy of economy and efficiency in the handling of the people's funds.

I am opposed to the convict labor system and favor the abolition of the present contract system and the elimination of the competition with organized labor that is the direct result of it. I am in favor of the use of convicts to produce what is needed by the state institutions and of the purchase of a farm on which they may labor in the open air to produce the foods needed in these institutions.

I am in thorough sympathy with the farmer, having been a farmer and living on a farm all my life. I will do all I can as governor for the great agricultural interests of Kentucky and the men and women engaged in it. As long as the farmer is prosperous every other interest in the state is prosperous, and all her people share in disaster to them as well as in their prosperity.

If I am elected governor I will do all I can to further the good roads movement, and all that is possible to secure a liberal appropriation for the schools and their continued improvement.

If the people want for governor of the state a man who will devote his time and what talents he may have entirely to their welfare, without regard to any future political preferment (for I believe there can be no higher office, certainly no higher honor, than the governorship of the state in which I was born and reared), then I want the nomination. There is no reason why the officials of the state should feel to give to the state the same devotion to duty as is exacted by any business corporation of its employees, and I promise the people not only to devote that time myself to their interests, but, so far as I may have the power to see that every other employee in executive departments of the state government does the same. A full day's work for a full day's pay will be the motto followed in the governor's office if I am elected, and it will apply to all the other departments over which I may have even the semblance of control or influence. HENRY M. BOSWORTH.

NEUTRAL RIGHTS WORLD-WIDE ISSUE

That Should Be Immediately Adjusted.

RIGHTS OF NEUTRAL NATIONS

In Time Of War Should Be Set Forth By a Universal Law.

PRESENT NATIONAL NECESSITY

There has arisen an issue that is world-wide and that must be settled in accordance with the rule of right, and not the rule of might.

We refer to the issue of the rights of neutral nations in the time of war.

For the rights of such nations to transact business without submission to the dictation of any belligerent or belligerents as to what they shall or shall not ship to other neutral nations, or to other belligerent nations, there should be an immediate alignment of neutrals to produce an international code that all nations shall respect.

It is preposterous that the quarrels of two nations, or of eight nations, should be permitted to interfere with the freedom of the seas for the commerce of nations that have no part in their quarrels, no interest in their strifes, no desires save to keep in peaceful relations with one and all of them.

The Governing Board of the Pan-American Union, representing 21 republics of the American continents, unanimously adopted, a few days ago, the motion of Dr. Romulo S. Naon, the Ambassador from Argentina, creating a special commission of members of the union to take steps to secure definition of neutrals' rights.

The Venezuelan Government through its Minister at Washington, Dr. Santos Dominici, has submitted a proposition to the Governing Board looking to the calling of an international conference in Washington which shall embrace representatives from all nations, neutrals and belligerents, looking to the formulating and adoption of an international code which will clearly define and establish the rights of neutral nations.

The citizens of the United States have been losers to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars by reason of the extreme proceedings of the belligerents as to our shipments to foreign countries.

Lists of contraband and embargoed articles have been handed our State Department by the representatives of foreign Governments that have paralyzed some of our industries and have brought great financial losses to many millions of our citizens, as for instance the prohibition of shipments of cotton to Germany until a few days ago, the prohibition on copper and rubber now.

The world can no longer permit the dictation of any belligerent nation as to what shall be shipped or shall not be shipped by neutrals upon the high seas.

No mediaeval ban upon commerce of the peaceful nations should have force in the twentieth century, and the edicts of Paris or Berlin, of Vienna or St. Petersburg, of Tokyo or London, should not be permitted to prevent the fishermen of Norway, Denmark, Holland and Sweden from supplying the world with food from the oceans, nor the merchants of those countries from safe and free intercourse with the ports of other neutral nations.

The products of the nitrate fields of Chile, the cotton plantations of the Southern States, the grain fields of Argentina, the copper mines of Peru and Montana and Arizona should not be kept from any market in the wide world by the command of any ruler on the face of the earth.

Here is an issue that affects all countries; that is to-day destroying commercial interests in every port, agricultural interests in many nations, industries, both upon land and upon the sea.

Twenty-one republics of America have voiced their dissatisfaction with existing conditions; nations in every continent are suffering from these injurious acts of belligerent powers. The Government of the United States should be prompt to lead in the international protest against these reprehensible acts and proceedings. Let the doctrine of a commerce freed from the dictation of any belligerent be placed quickly in the world's recognized code of the rights of neutrals. Let the United States of America place strongly its own determination to effect this change and let it cooperate with the other countries that are suffering from the acts of the warring Powers.

"MY AUTO, 'TIS OF THEE, OF THEE I SADLY SING"

My auto, 'tis of thee, short cut to poverty, of thee I chant. I blew a pile of "dough" on you two years ago, and now you quite refuse to go, or won't or can't. Through town and countryside you were my pride and joy—a happy day. I loved thy gaudy hue, thy nice white tires so new, but now you're down and out for true, in every way. To thee, old rattle-box, came many bumps and knocks; for thee I grieve. Badly thy top is torn, frayed are thy seats and worn; the whooping cough affects thy horn, I do believe. Thy perfume swells the breeze, while good folks choke and wheeze, as we pass by. I paid for thee a price 'twould buy a mansion twice—row everybody's yelling "ice"—I wonder why? Thy motor has the grip, the spark plug has the pip, and woe is thine. I too, have suffered skills, ague and kindred ills, endeavoring to pay my bills, since thou wert mine. Gone is my bank roll now. No more 'twould choke the cow, as once before. Yet if I had the "mon," so help me John—amen, I'd buy myself a car again, and speed some more.

GETTING BACK AT KANSAS.

Everyone has read William Allen White's 42-centimeter editorial shot at Nebraska, inspired by the New York Times' error in assigning Nebraska instead of Kansas as the native State of General Fred Funston. Now comes Harvey Newbranch, editor of Senator Hitchcock's Omaha World-Herald, with the following withering fire of literary shrapnel: "Base envy, as the poet remarked, withers at another's joy, and hates that excellence it cannot reach. So was it ever with Kansas. "Nebraska raises corn and alfalfa and wheat and pork and beef, and Kansas raises hell. Nebraska piles up wealth and Kansas piles up sand dunes. Nebraska is so righteous that she can trust herself to freedom, and Kansas so wicked that she must restrain herself in gyves and chains—then cries out, 'See how good I am!' Kansas tries all things and Nebraska picks up those that are good and holds onto them. Kansas keeps the rest. Nebraska is philosophic and happy, Kansas is fretful, impatient, insomniac. Kansas vainly seeks surcease in fads and follies and chimeras. Nebraska finds it in the simple virtues our mothers taught, reinforced by all the good things that a rational use of honestly acquired wealth can procure. Nebraska is courteous and unobtrusive, Kansas a shrieking self-advertiser, boasting even of her blizzards and hot winds as colder and hotter and more destructive than can be found anywhere else on earth. Nebraska outranks Kansas in all the excellencies and blessings and Kansas outranks Nebraska in her ability as a ballyhoo artist.

"If this man White really thinks we are a milk-eyed, placid, blue-stocking old maid who never had a throb of emotion," let him come up and try us. Let him sneak around Lincoln, which is a Kansas burg transplanted by a Kansas breeze and not a Nebraska town at all, and make his way straight to Omaha. Let him come with his hair in a braid and a glad, mad light in his eye. He may go home fagged and dazed and bent and broke, but at the least he can say, 'I have lived!' And he will have the rest of his life to devote to recuperating—and remembering. He will have been to Carcasonne."

Brevity.

Brevity may or may not be the "soul of wit," but there is no question in regard to brevity being the soul of conversation nowadays. The aim of the up-to-the-second conversationalist is to cut all corners and get there in the shortest possible time.

In days of yore a man was polite under all circumstances, no matter how much time it consumed. Then he would say: "My dear sir, I desire that you understand thoroughly that I comprehend fully and in all detail the information you are endeavoring to impart to me."

Now he says "Gotcha!"

"Hen" Eggs.

Mrs. X. relates that while in London she frequented a shop if they had any fresh eggs.

"Yes, mum, plenty," said the clerk; "them with a hen on 'em are fresh."

"I don't see any with a hen on them," said Mrs. X., looking around for a nest.

"The letter 'hen,' mum, 'not the bird, 'Hen' stands for 'noo-laid,' mum."—[Boston Transcript.]

CHURCH ETIQUETTE

As long as there are churches there will be a church etiquette, and very many who would not think for a moment of offending at a social function, do not seem at all concerned when attending a sacred service. The following rules form a good foundation:

1. If possible, be on time. You need at least five minutes, after coming, to get warm or cool, to compose your body and mind, and to whisper a prayer before the service begins.

2. Never pass up an aisle during prayer or Scripture reading. If you do, your presence will distract the minds of many in the audience.

3. Be devout in every attitude. All whispering should be studiously avoided. Find the hymn and sing it if you can. Share the book with your neighbor.

4. If the sermon has begun, take a seat near the door, no matter if you are "at home."

5. Be thoughtful for the comforts of others. Take the inside of the pew if you are the first to enter, and leave all vacant space at the end next to the aisle.

6. Speak a bright, cheery word to as many as possible at the close of the service. If you are a stranger ask one of the ushers to introduce you to the pastor or to some of the officers of the church. This will always insure you a hearty welcome.

7. Never put on your overcoat, overshoes, or wraps during the closing hymn, and do not make a rush for the door immediately after benediction is pronounced. There should be no loud talking and jesting after the service is concluded. This is as much out of place in the house of God as in a house of mourning.

The New Science of Agronomy.

"Farm" products cost more than they used to."

"Yes," replied the farmer. "When a farmer is supposed to know the botanical name of what he's raising, an' the entomological name of the insect that eats it, an' the pharmaceutical name of the chemical that will kill it, somebody's got to pay."

Business conditions are reassuring, according to a report issued by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

YOUR TOWN.

Patronize home, where your interest are, and help maintain and support its interests—your interests, your neighbor's interests. Get that out of your heart that is envious of every success; that wants to pull down every interest that seems to reach beyond yours, and is in reality an advantage to it and the town. Neither imagine when a few shekels accumulate in your wallet you must necessarily go out of town to spend them, thinking it would never do to distribute a little cash to your home merchants, since you can stand them off for six months or a year. Mistaken idea. They'll appreciate the cash and give you just as good bargains as any merchant in your neighboring towns or cities that may get your cash. Encourage home dealers and manufacturers in everything, not only by your patronage but by words of encouragement and commendation. This is the way to build up a town and make business lively. And be sure you patronize your home pane when you see it stands by your interests, lands every legitimate enterprise and waits to the world's doings, transactions, picturing advantages, holding out inducements, and in a thousand ways building up your interests. If it deserves not your hearty and liberal support, pray, who does? Stand by your town in all its active business life and support its interests.—[Gallatin Democrat.]

form their judgment of my character, honesty and intelligence and fitness for the office, after a critical examination of my official conduct, and after making careful inquiries of those who know me as to my reputation for honesty and fair dealing to all men, and it is for them to say whether I am entitled to a continuance of that support and of the confidence they have in the past so generously accorded me.

While acting as treasurer of the state during the fearful financial panic of 1907, I made such disposition of the funds of the state in my care during that critical time as to preserve the credit of the state, without imperiling or destroying the credit of a single institution in the state and without the loss of a single dollar of the state's funds.

The auditor of the state, by virtue of his office, is chairman of the board of valuation and assessment of the state of Kentucky, which board has entrusted to it a duty which is of more importance to the people of the state than any other duty connected with that office. It is the function of that board, of which I have been chairman for the past three years, to value and assess for taxation, the franchises of all railroad companies and public service corporations doing business within the state. This character of property forms a considerable proportion of the total taxable property in the state and the amount of taxes these companies are required to pay is dependent upon the nature of the assessment made against them. That is, if the assessment of their property is too low, these corporations will be charged with their full share of the public burden. If too high, then the owners thereof pay more than their fair proportion of the taxes of the State.

It was a matter of common report and general belief among the people of this State that the franchises of

We are proud to say that we never had a sale that was not a success. We realize that our success has been achieved by the fair treatment our customers always get, and the remarkably low prices we place on a line of merchandise of superior quality. If you are interested in the purchase of any merchandise, either now or in the near future, the prices should appeal to you. If you have not been as prosperous as you think you should have been, we can do you no greater favor than to ask your careful consideration of our prices. Even if you are prosperous, you show your good judgment when you visit us. We will expect you to visit us many times before the sale ends.
